October 10, 1964—
funny thing—sunny, warm, Indian Summer, simply gorgeous—only one problem—bring your umbrella,
don't step in the puddles—
Homecoming Weekend,
'64—complete with rain—

Rain? Ridiculous! It wasn't raining in Macdonough—who'd dress
dummies in Victorian relics
—who'd wear a satin shift
or a new wool blazer in the rain? Nope, it wasn't really raining—it was all soft lights and music thrown in with a few sweet nothings
—but outside? Rain.

We cared? Who us? We sang—shoulder to shoulder
and mostly off key—loud
and laughing—already wishing it wouldn't end—
watching the sun break
through—( finally )—Rain never phased us—not at

Hey now kid!
 Love those bony knees—
 (And baggy pants)
 Love your bathing cap—
 Suit too—(so roomy)
 Cigar taste good—
 (Oh, it's not lit)
 You say you were wounded—
 (With a cap gun?)
 You got thrown in the pool,
     Scored zero in the game,
     Were sore for a week after the dance?
 Fun, wasn't it?

Beautiful, wasn't it?
 All that white, glistening snow
 Falling softly into the night—

 The judging—
 (What judging?)
 No snow—no sculptures—
